THE RUKHMABAI DEFENCE COMMITTEE.

HAVING for its objects—(a) the protection of Rukhmabai against the injustice and hardship which would be involved in her being imprisoned in execution of a decree pronounced by the High Court of Bombay in a suit brought against her by her husband for the restitution of conjugal rights, the case being one in which those "rights" as a matter of fact have never yet been exercised.

And (b) The removal of the anomaly involved in punishing disobedience to a decree based on Hindoo Matrimonial law by the penalty of imprisonment,—it being a penalty which is entirely unknown to that law and is created by a British rule of Civil Procedure.

Subscriptions are urgently solicited for the objects set forth above and may be sent to the Undersigned or direct to the Bank of Bombay to the credit of the Rukhmabai Defence Fund.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE
Is the only Patent Medicine of the kind or name awarded Certificate of Merit at the Calcutta International Exhibition, 1883-4; and the only trade Mark—"PHOSPHODYNE"—Registered and Protected under the Trade Marks Act, 38 and 39 Vic. 91. Certified by the Registrar of Trade Marks, London.

HEALTH, STRENGTH, & ENERGY

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE
For TWENTY-FIVE YEARS has maintained its world-wide reputation as the ONLY SAFE, RELIABLE, PHOSPHORIC REMEDY ever discovered for the Permanent Cure of Brain Wreckage, Paralysis, Sleeplessness, Harassing Dreams, Premature Decay of Vital Power, and all Functional and Diseased Conditions of the system dependent upon the deficiency of the Vital Forces.

It Cures Dyspepsia, Nerve, and Heart Disease.
Cures Kidney and Liver Complaints.
Cures all Disorders of the Blood.
Cures Depression and Loss of Appetite.
Cures Consumption and General Debility.
Checks all Wasting of the Vital Forces
From whatever Cause arising.

The EFFECT of this Standard Phosphoric Remedy in Nervous Debility and its Kindred Evils is immediate and permanent, all the Miserable Feelings and Distressing Symptoms disappearing with a rapidity that is REALLY MARVELLOUS.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE,
Whilst Pleasant to the Taste and Agreeable to the Stomach, never fails to Purify and Enrich the Blood, and thoroughly invigorate the Brain, Nerves, and Muscles. Its energising effects are shown from the First Day of its administration by a remarkable Increase of Nerve and Intellectual Power, with a feeling of Courage, Strength, and Comfort to which the Patient has long been unaccustomed. Digestion is invigorated. The Appetite increases wonderfully. The Bowels become regular. Sleep becomes calm and refreshing. The Face becomes fuller, the Lips red, the Eyes brighter, the Skin clear and healthy, and the Hair acquires strength showing the importance of its action n the Organs of Nutrition.

BEWARE OF VILE IMITATIONS.—NONE IS GENUINE UNLESS every Bottle bears the British Government Stamp with the words DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE, London, England, engraved thereon. The great Popularity of DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE has raised up Miserable Imitations in India and the Colonies, made up from cheap, useless Drugs by Ignorant Pretenders. See that the above words are on the Government Stamp before you purchase, and thus avoid dangerous consequences by the use of Spurious imitations.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE
Actually creates New Nervous Fluid and Brain Matter by supplying the Blood with its Electric Life Element Phosphorous, "the very Core and Centre of the Brain itself," and kindles afresh the Fire of Life from the Sole of the Foot to the Crown of the Head.

The unequalled Curative Properties of this Preparation has spread its fame throughout every Nation and Country in the World as the only medicine of real efficacy for Renovating Broken-down Constitutions. Restoring the fullest and most Vigorous Conditions of Robust Health and Manhood under every circumstance, and at very age, by nourishing, fertilising, and developing all the powers of every necessary part of the human organisation, thus ensuring a sound and permanent restoration of the Impaired organs wherever a deficiency of natural vigour has for years existed, so that all the duties of life may be pursued with Confidence and Pleasure.

DR. LALOR'S PHOSPHODYNE.
Thousands of unimpeachable Testimonials from all parts of the World, and from the highest Medical Authorities, prove conclusively the wonderful universal that in the world of scientific research no other Phosphoric Preparation has received such exalted praise and distin

IMMISCH'S SELF-REGISTERING PATENT

METALLIC THERMOMETERS.

FOR CLINICAL AND ORDINARY PURPOSES.

These neat and elegant instruments are introduced to supply a want long felt, viz., a Thermometer that could be relied upon, with less liability to breakage than the ordinary glass ones.

On account of their shape and size they can be either worn on the watch chain as a charm, or carried in a neat case in the vest pocket: while, if perferred, they may be attached to small cord round the neck, this cord if long enough will allow of its being inserted either in the mouth or axilla without fear of their being swallowed or let fall.

As a surface Thermometer it is unsurpassed for readily recording the temperature: its sensitive nature is shown by the slightest breath on the case causing the indicater to move.

For use internally it can neither injure nor receive injury, and is, consequently, convenient and safe. Before being applied the instrument should be brought by friction to about Normal; this saves much time with a restless patient or fractious child. No shaking down is required, the instrument readily accommodating itself to the altered temperature. An addition has been made to this instrument which will be appreciated by Clinicians as a distinct improvement. It consists of the introduction of a stop, by means of which the reading can be fixed after the temperature is taken. The object is secure by simply putting out a Knob inside the bow, the reverse action serving again to liberate the pointer.

The mechanism is so simple that it would be hardly possible for it to get out of order, and even in so unlikely an event it can be easily and inexpensively repaired. The action of the instrument depends upon the opening and closing of a metallic tube which is filled with highly expansive liquids; this being the case, it is insensible to barometric changes, as has been proved to the satisfaction of the highest scientific authorities. It received the only First Class Award for Thermometers at the international Medical Congress, 1881, but has only recently been made for sale.

Possessing so many advantages over the ordinary thermometer, the glass of which is generally made so thin over the bulb that it becomes often dangerous to use, it cannot be wondered at, that it has received the highest praise from the Medical Press and Professions, while the Meteorological, Engineering and other Scientific Journals unite in recommending it to the public generally, as an accurate, ingenious, and sensitive instrument.

Price for an Improved Self-registering Thermometer
In Silver Case with Kew Certificate Rs. 21-0.
In Gold Case " " Rs. 50-0.

SHE SHOWED SIGNS OF DEATH. " 22, Storie-road, S.E. June 2, 1887.

To the Hop Bitters Company (Ld.)

41, Farringdon-road.

"I have much pleasure in testifying to the exceeding great value of your Bitters. My grandmother, who is now 78 years old, was taken very ill with a severe colic, which settled in her back, affecting the kidneys. I had medical aid, but the medicine made her worse instead of better; and the doctor who attended her said she would only last a few hours. I must admit that I did believe she would pass true, and she evidently showed signs of death. But we gave her doses of Hop Bitters as stated times, which acted with good results. It is now two months since this happened, and I am thankful to say that she has recovered so much as to be able to go out, and looks better than she did before she was taken ill.

"You can make what use you like of this letter, as I feel convinced that had she not had the Bitters, I should be sorrowing over her loss.—Yours faithfully.

(Signed) "R. K. HAMILTON."

ROBBING A CHILD OF ITS ORNAMENT.—Ramjee Wittoo reported to the Police on Thursday that his daughter aged four years was enticed away from his residence in Takoorwady at Lohar Chawl to some stable behind the Dhobie Talao Police station, where the girl states the Hindoo who took her there, promised her some sweet-meat, unfastened the silver chain from her neck and made off with it. The chain is valued at Rs. 12.

DEATH FROM BURNS.—An inquest was held by the Coroner yesterday at the J. J. Hospital touching the death of Fatma a young Mahomedan woman aged 14 years. Deceased on Thursday night was at a wedding party at Falkland Road, when her clothes caught fire from a naked kerosine oil lamp. She sustained extensive burns about her body and was at once removed to the Hospital but she died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. A verdict of accidental death by burns was recorded.

LOST.—Cursetjee Sorabjee Wadia, residing at Parsee Bazaar Street Fort, reported to the Police having dropped from his watch chain two gold coins, the one an English Sovereign and the other a Persian coin, also a spring gold ring, of the collective value of Rs. 45, some where between his residence and the Apollo House on Thursday. Narayen Bhagshett residing at Vittul-wady reports dropping a gold ear ornament set with 3 pearls valued at Rs. 40 from his person on Thursday.

THE LATE MR. FRANK SHANAHAN.—A very handsome marble slab has been placed in the South wall of the Roman Catholic chapel in the Fort, as a memorial to the late Mr. Shanahan. This testimony of their regard and esteem is the outcome of a movement set on foot by the late gentleman's friends and school fellows to commorate his sterling worth and the sad void his death has left among his school mates, friends, and scholars Mr. H. Noonan, the undertaker designed the slab which is off artistic design.

THE ROYAL ARTILLERY DANCE.—The anniversary of the celebrated Kandahar March, was celebrated on Thursday at Colaba by the D. Battery first Brigade R. A. North Irish Division by a dance at which there was a large attendance. Two of the barrack rooms were used for the occasion and were most tastefully decorated. Dancing commenced early and was kept up with great spirit till a late, or rather early hour yesterday morning. Amongst those who were present were the Brigade-General and a large number of naval and military officers with a fair sprinkling of civilians.

A SHOP LIFTER.—At the Fort Police Court yesterday Inspector Nolan charged Syed Alvat, before Mr. Ryan with the theft of two pieces of chintz from Soloman Hajee Hasmth, a cloth dealer. On Thursday afternoon the accused visited the compainant's shop, picked the chintz up and walked away with it. He was seen and promptly arrested as he was running away with the cloth. Prisoner pleaded guilty and also admitted numerous previous convictions. His Worship sentenced him to eighteen months' rigorous imprisonment and warned him if he continued stealing after his release from jail he would be deported.

SUICIDES.—An inquest was held by the coroner yesterday at Cruickshank Road touching the death of Hurrilal Lullubhoy aged 18 years. deceased was the son of Lulloobnoy Bhoghilal a clerk in the Manockji Petit Spinning and Weaving Mills and resided with his parents at Cavel street. He was a student in the Fort High School and was in the habit of frequenting theatres for which purpose he was always wanting money from his father. On Wednesday it was refused him and shortly afterwards deceased was missing from his residence. Yesterday morning his body was found floating in a well on the esplanade. A verdict of suicidal death by drowning was recorded. Another inquest was held by the coroner yesterday at the Morgue touching the death of Walee woman aged 55 years. Deceased hawked friut in the streets. She was addicted to drink. On Wednesday after she cooked the evening meal for herself and her sons, she left her house at Byculla to fetch some liquor. Since then she had not been heard of. Her son while making a report at the Police Station on Thursday evening heard that the body of a woman was found floating in a tank at the municipal stables at Cammateepoora and on going there found it to be his mother. There were no external marks of violence on the body and all her ornaments were untouched. A verdict of suicidal death by drowning was recorded.

THE EED AT HYDERABAD.—The usual Eed Durbar was fixed for Tuesday evening at half-past five, but owing to some mistake as to the place in which it was to be held, a great deal of confusion ensued. At last His Highness put in an appearance at the Chow Mahal Palace in the city about 11-30 p.m. A very brief durbar was then held, but as many had by this time returned home, the ceremony was not of a particularly interesting description. The presentation to Nawab Asman Jah of his khillat as Dewran, which was to have taken place on this occasion, was postponed to a more fitting opportunity.—Deccan Times

SERIOUS FRACAS AT POONA.—On Thursday morning the Connaught Market was the scene of a somewhat serious fracas, in which Mr. Hunt, the market inspector, got severely assaulted by a gang consisting of about 20 butchers. One of Mr. Hunt's duties is to see that the stall rents are collected from the occupants, and for this purpose he sent round one of his men to a butcher named Imam Ali, who was two days in arrears. The man deliberately refused to meet the demand or to vacate his stall. Mr. Hunt then endeavoured to eject him, and in the scuffle that ensued, the butcher got his fingers jammed by an accidental fall of the block. Imam Ali roared out that he was stabbed, and at once brought to his assistance a number of other Mahomedans. All these persons then made an attack on the inspector, and endeavoured to floor him by kicks on his calves. One man, Ismael, rushed at Mr. Hunt with his head, but fortunately did not succeed in his attempt to do damage. Besides Mr. Hunt, the stall-reut collector a Mr. MacDonald, as also some sepoys, were severely handled.—Poona Observer.

ROYAL ARTILLERY BALL AT POONA.—On Wenesday night the officers of the Royal Artillery gave a magnificent ball, which will certainly be looked back upon by all who were there as the event of the Poona season of 1887. The arrangements were more splendid and on a larger scale than on similar occasions at Kirkee in recent years. The five mess-rooms, affording two good dancing floors, were handsomely decorated with arms and flowers, the small designs of crossed swords, chains, and flowers being particularly artistic. That our hosts were gunners was unmistakeable, for in the centre of the mess a gun was placed on a carpet, nor was it unguarded, for two very smart Horse Artillerymen stood near it all the evening, holding the cord which divided the dancers. Supper was served at midnight in the racquet court, the fine old polished tables of the mess being placed in the form of a large cross, with small round tables dotted about, giving a very pleasing effect on entering the room. The grounds were prettily laid out with plants and illuminated with Chinese and other lights and a large circle of tents joined together gave shelter to many a pair of chairs, not that shelter was necessary, for fortune favoured the gunners with a lovely night. Dancing was kept up with much spirit until half-past two o'clock and supping till a much later hour. The band of his Excellency the Governor played during the evening.—Ibid.

ORDERING OUT GOODS ON INDENT.

As already reported by us, judgment has been delivered by the Hon. Mr. Justice Farran at the Bombay High Court in the case of the United Merchants Company, Limited, against Doolabram Sakulchund, in which a reference was made from the Small Cause Court.

His Lordship said :—The facts in this case, except in details which appear to me of but little importance, are not really in dispute. The plaintiffs are a company whose business is to receive indents in Bombay, order out goods from Europe to fulfil such indents, and deliver such goods to the indentors in Bombay. The defendandant for some time prior to the transaction in question dealt with the plaintiffs' company. On the 7th August 1885, the defendant signed one of the plaintiff's usual indent forms, by which he commissioned the plaintiffs to order for his account from Europe, to be shipped as soon as possible by any steamer and subject to certain printed conditions, the following goods :—100 bundles, each weighing about 5 cwts, equal to 500 cwts, copper braziers, assorted in a certain manner set out in the indent, at £53-5 per ton, free on board, Bombay harbour. The first condition provided for the reference of any disputes as to quality, or condition of the goods to arbitration. The next related to the payment which was to be cash for goods, free on board, Bombay harbour. The latter portion of it which provides for the payment of shipping charges, &c., by the defendant must be rejected as inconsistent with the rest of the order. The next is as follows :—" The United merchants Company, Limited, or their agents, can draw upon me at.....days' sight at the current rate of exchange for the full invoice amount, and I herewith bind myself, to accept such draft on presentation and to pay it at maturity against delivery of the documents relating to such shipments, or if required by payment at current rate of exchange of the day by Bank bill as usual." The alternative made of payment is in writing. This fact and the number of the days' sight being left blank shows that it was intended that payment in this case was to be in cash. Then comes—" All risks of the voyage are for my account." Then—" I hereby agree to accept the whole or any part of the order that may be practicable." Then—" In case of the order being transmitted by wire, the United Merchants Company, Limited, do not hold themselves responsible for any mistake on the part of telegraph officials." Then—"commission, nil." Lastly, "shipment, September next." Before accepting such an indent as the above, it is usual for the plaintiff's company to telegraph to their agents in England to ascertain whether the order can be carried out at the rate proposed. This was not done in the present case, as the defendent did not wish the delay or expense of a telegram, but desired the company either to accept the order at once or refuse it. The company departed from their usual practice, because Carramchand Cullianjee, one of the directors, expressed his willingness to take the risk upon himself. The order was in fact accepted by the company on his account and at his risk. This, however, did not effect the defendant or alter his legal position in reference to the company. As far as the defendant was concerned, he commissioned the plaintiffs to order out for him 500 cwts copper braziers, September shipment, and agreed to accept the whole 500 cwts and pay for them in cash at the rate of £5-3-5 per ton, free on board, Bombay harbour, on their arrival. On the same day the plaintiff's gave or sent to the defendant a reply in their usual form to his order, partly lithographed and partly written as follows :—" Bombay, 7th August 1885. The United Merchants Company, Limited, to Doolubram Sakulchund, Esq. We have the pleasure to inform you that we have received a telegram from our Manchester friends, and so far as regards the cyphers therein used, we learn that they advise the following purchases, which will be invoiced to you at your limit, subject to confirmation by letter as usual :—" Order this day 100 bundles of copper braziers at £53-5 per ton, free on board, Bombay." This reply, from the word "order" to the end, is written. That word and the portion preceding it are lithographed. As a fact, however, no telegram had been received from the plaintiffs' Manchester friends, and the plaintiffs had not learnt that they had advised the purchases referred to in their reply. This was probably known to the defendant as well as to the plaintiffs. It was suggested that the telegram referred to in the reply might relate to a prior offer which the plaintiffs had received by telegram about a fortnight before, and which they had not accepted, but the suggestion appears to me to be without foundation. The acceptance of the defendant's offer was really based on Carramchand's view of the probabilities of the copper markets. As I have stated above, the usual course of the plaintiffs' sending a telegram and waiting for a reply before accepting the defendant's order was not adhered to, as Carramchund took the risk as well as the possible profit of the order upon himself. That circumstance, it seems to me cannot alter the legal effect of the plaintiff's reply in the same way as it did not effect the legal results flowing from the defendant's order. The plaintiffs are in the same position exactly as if the usual course had been pursued. The defendant's order, as summarised above, is accepted by the plaintiffs thus—" The goods you have ordered will be invoiced to you at your limit, namely 100 bundles of copper braziers at £53-5 per ton., free on board, Bombay." The reasons which induced the plaintiffs to accept the order seem to me to be quite immaterial, whether it was the receipt of a telegram assuring them that the order could be carried out at the defendant's limit or the fact that Carramchund's undertaking placed them in the same safe position as if such a telegram had been received. The plaintiffs, in consideration of the defendant's order and the undertakings contained in it, promise the defendant that the goods ordered by him will be invoiced to him at the agreed rate. That acceptance or promise is in the same lithographed terms as the plaintiffs use in accepting and promising to fulfil all similar orders, and is, it seems to me, attended with the same legal consequences. I find nothing in the oral evidence which prevents me from giving effect to the contract between the plaintiffs and the defendant evidenced by the written agreement. The evidence of the plaintiffs' agent is that Carramchund directed him to draw out the usual form. On the 11th August, 1885, the plaintiffs wrote to their Manchester agents to send them the goods which the plaintiffs had ordered at £52-15 per ton. This indent the plaintiffs cancelled by telegram early in September, reducing their limit by 5s. per ton. The agents were unable to carry out the order at the reduced limit, and it remained unexecuted. On the 26th October, the plaintiffs through one Carramchund had negotiated with one Naga Dacha for the goods from him a September shipment of copper by the Merton Hall, answering to the defendant's order and for the purpose of fulfilling it, so they wrote on that day to the defendant as follows :—" We beg to inform you of the arrival of the s.s. Merton Hall with 100 packages of goods sold to you as per agreement No. 213, and have therefore to request payment of the cash for those goods according to the terms of the agreement." The negotiation with Naga Dacha fell through, and the defendant therefore could not get the goods from the Merton Hall. He on the 30th October wrote through his solicitors to the plaintiffs stating that he believed the goods never came to Bombay, and he considered the contract to be at an end. The plaintiffs on the 29th October had succeeded in purchasing through Carramchund a September shipment of goods from Behjee Mahomed, corresponding to those ordered by the defendant. They then on the 31st October wrote to the defendant, informing him that it was a mistake of their clerk to advise the arrival of the plaintiffs' goods per Merton Hall, and handing the defendant invoice of 100 bundles arrived ex Tuban Head. The defendant found out that the plaintiffs had not ordered out those goods, but purchased them in Bombay, and he repudiated them on that ground. The price of copper had then fallen. The plaintiffs sold the goods by auction and now sue for the difference in price between that realised and that which the defendant had contracted to pay. The question is whether, under the circumstances, they are entitled to recover it. That question is one of general importance. It amounts to this. When a firm like the plaintiffs accepts a commission to order out goods from Europe at a specified rate, and undertake that the goods will be invoiced to the indentor at that rate, do they fulfil their contract by offering to their indentor goods which they have procured in Bombay from another house answering in the description of the goods ordered through them? It appears to me that the custom of the trade, if there be one, ought properly to be invited to solve that question. (See Johnson vs. Baylton, 7 Q. B. Div., p. 438.) No evidence of any custom has, however, been adduced, and I must therefore decide it upon principle. It is admitted by the plaintiffs, witnesses that it was intended at the time when the defendant gave his order that the goods should be ordered out from England by the plaintiffs' and that was the invariable course of business of the plaintiffs' firm, the present case forming the only instance to the contrary. The plaintiffs usually have the goods they order out invoiced to themselves, and when they receive such invoice, they re-invoice them to the persons for whom they order out the goods. In the case of copper braziers, it does not appear to make any difference to the indentor whether they are imported by the firm from or through whom he obtains the goods or not. In the case of goods of other descriptions, there may be, and no doubt is, an advantage, real or supposed, in ordering them out by a particular firm. The construction of the contract cannot, however, vary according to the goods to which it is applied. The importance of the stipulation is really immaterial. The sole question is, is it a term of the contract that the plaintiffs shall order out the goods? Can this be really doubted? The proposal is that the plaintiffs shall order out the goods to be paid for at a certain rate. The acceptance is an undertaking that the goods shall be invoiced to the defendant at that rate. That, in my opinion, means that the goods shall be ordered out and invoiced to the defendant at that rate ; otherwise it would not be an acceptance of it with a modification which, until the modification was itself assemted to, would not constitute a contract. The case of Johnson vs. Baylton, 7 Ch. Din., p. 438, is important in showing that, if it can be gathered expressly or impliedly from an order for goods and its acceptance that the goods are to be of the manufacture of the person accepting the order, the latter will not fulfil his contract by supplying goods in all respects answering to the description contained in the order if they are not of his own manufacture. Upon that point there was no difference of opinion between Lord Bramwell and his colleagues. Their difference of opinion consisted in this. Was a stipulation that the goods were to be manufactured by the plaintiff to be implied into the contract without evidence of custom? Lords Justices Cotton and Brett thought that it was. Lord Bramwell thought not. To use the words of Brett, Lord Justice, in that case—" It seems to me to be more consonant with the ordinary simplicity of fair mercantile business and more in accordance with legal principles to say" that an importing firm which accepts a commission to order out goods at a fixed rate and undertakes that they shall be invoiced to the person giving the order at that rate does not fulfil his contract by obtaining goods answering to the terms of the order from another firm in Bombay and tendering them to the person giving the order than (in the absence of evidence of usage) to say the contrary, that this is so through the practical effect of an order like the present, when accepted, is to constitute the relation of vendor and purchaser between the parties. As to the legal relation which such a contract creates, see Ireland vs. Livingtom, 5 Eng. Ir. App., p. 395. I have already pointed out that it was the admitted intention of the parties that the defendant's order shall be carried out in England in the usual manner. The terms of the plaintiffs' letter (written under the instructions of Carramchund) offering the defendant goods ex Merton Hall and ex Tuban Head in fulfilment of his order, indicate also, I think, an intention on the plaintiff's part to conceal from the defendant the fact that they had not themselves ordered out the goods. Their present contention is for the first time set up in their letter of the 3rd November 1885. It is to be regretted that the law in this case does not allow of an appeal from my decision, as it involves a question of importance. I dismiss the suit with costs, including costs of appeal for new hearing.

THE ALLIANCE COTTON MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

THE fifth ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the above Company was held yesterday at the registered office of Company No 2, Dalal Street, Fort. Mr. Damoderdas Tapidas the Chairman of the company presided. The following report of the Directors was submitted to the meeting :—

Gentlemen, your directors have the pleasure to lay before you the audited balance sheet with profit and loss account for the year ending 30th June 1887, showing a total profit in the working of your factories of Rs. 1,41,555-3-4, including the balance of Rs. 21,510 brought forward from the previous year. Out of this amount they declared an ad-interim dividend for the half year ending 31st December 1886 of Rs. 30 per share amounting to Rs. 53,730, which left a balance of Rs. 87,825-3-4, from which they have transferred Rs. 2,000 to Insurance Fund Account as per articles of association of the Company and Rs. 5,000 to Tapidas Varjdass Commemoration Fund Account in accordance with the resolution passed by the shareholders at the general meeting held last year, and also written off Rs. 26,000 on account of depreciation of machinery. After making all the above deductions there remains undisposed of Rs. 54,825-3-4 from which your directors recommend a dividend at the rate of Rs. 30 per share for the half year ended 30th June last, which will absorb Rs. 53,730, and to carry Rs. 1,095-3-4 to next year's account. Your directors have to report that they have added to your mill new preparatory machinery and also extended the building to hold the same at a cost of Rs 64,991-7-11. The suits pending between the Company and Messrs. John Hetherington and Sons have been settled amicably. Your directors regret to state that Mr. Sewram Purshotum who was on the Board for the last 17 years resigned his seat owing to the bad state of his health ; the vacancy has been filled up by the appointment of Mr. Pranjeewau Sewram which you are asked to confirm. They also regret to inform you of the death of Mr. Merwanjee Framjee one of the auditors of your Company and the shareholders will now have to appoint another gentleman in his place. Both mills, one for 25824 spindles and the other for 11664 spindles together with the stock in trade, have been insured for Rs. 12,06,500.

Resolutions were then passed adopting the above report ; declaring a dividend of Rs. 30 per share ; confirming the appointment made by the Board of Mr. Pranjeewan Sewman as a director ; re-electing Messrs. Nanabhoy B. Jeejeebhoy and Jagabhoy Tapidass as directors, and appointing Messrs. M. R. DeQuadras and Jumnadass Purmandass as auditors of the accounts of the Company for the present year at a remuneration of Rs. 150 each. A note of thanks was then tendered to the chairman, directors, secretaries and treasurers of the Company for their able and satisfactory management of the Company's affairs, and the meeting dispersed.

ATTEMPTED RISING IN MANDALAY.

OUR Mandalay correspondent has already supplied us by telegraph with some particulars of a plot to seize the city on behalf of the son of the Pakhan Prince, a brother of the late king Mindoon, whom it was proposed to proclaim as king. Two hundred men of the rebel chiefs, Bo-To and Bo Yam, who occupy the Irrawaddy Island, were to land in Mandalay ; the people of the town were to join them and attack with them the gates of the city, the palace, Mandalay hill, and the Court houses. The leading spirit of the conspiracy was said to be the Tabuyin Bishop, and meetings of the conspirators were to be held at his monastery, and at the Ein-daw-Ya pagoda in B road. A further telegram from Mandalay gives the following fuller details and of the measures taken to secure the conspirators :—

Immediate arrangements were made to watch the places where the meetings were expected to be held, as well as the landing places on the river. The military guards were doubled and the troops kept in readiness to move at a moment's notice. About 7-30 p. m., the Burmese police watching the Tabuyin monastery seized six men leaving the premises, and found one of them to be the Prince. Information was carried to the Court-house, where about 60 men of the Punjab and Burmese police were in readiness. They immediately marched to the monastery, surrounded it and arrested about 40 men and 14 phoongyees. About 30 others altogether were arrested in other parts of Mandalay. By 10 p. m. all the arrests were effected without attractiug any particular notice in the town.

The conspiracy, which was very formidable on paper, collapsed, as the armed men from the district failed to appear, and the outbreak had been adjourned when the Prince was arrested. The arrangements made to carry out the designs of the conspirators were childish, and the most that could have happened would have been that parts of the town would have been fired, and unarmed people found in the streets might have been murdered by the ruffians engaged in this mad attempt. The Prince himself is a weak-minded man of 46 years of age, who was simply a tool in the hands of an intriguing monk. These conspiracies in Mandalay can effect little or nothing ; but they must disturb the minds of the people, and show that there is a considerable amount of feeling against English rule amongst the Burmans—more especially amongst the priesthood.

SERIOUS LANDSLIPS AT MUSSOORIE

A CORRESPONDENT of the Lahore paper gives some particulars of a serious landslip which has occurred at Mussoorie. Some miraculous escapes the are reported. As it was three houses come down in Landour Bazaar. The correspondent says :—

At " St. Roque" ou Castle-hill, occupied by Colone Bramley and his two sons, a large masonry pusta came down from the Castle at night, crushing through the house, shivering windows and doors into splintors, and its progress only arrested at Colonel Bramley's bedrocm door ; a large slab which had given away, most providentially stuck between two oak trees : if it had come down it would in all probability, from the direction it was taking, have fallen on the room occupied by Colonel Bramley's sons and crushed them to death whilst they were asleep. A large cliff almost came down upon Captain Murray's house, " Under-cliff," which is in the same direction—that is just beyond the Happy Valley.

COURTS-MARTIAL.

AT Poona on the 19th ult., Private John Maxwell, 2nd Durham Light Infantry, was arraigned upon the charge of stealing money belonging to a Regimental Instructor. He was found guilty and sentenced to be imprisoned with hard labour for fifty six days.

At Kirkee on the 20th ult., Sergeant John Holland F Battery, 2nd Brigade, R. A., was arraigned firstly, for failing to appear at the place of parade appointed by his commanding officer ; and secondly for an aggravated offence of drunkenness. He was found guilty of the first charge and sentenced to be reduced to the rank of corporal. But in consideration of the prisoner's previous good conduct the sentence was remitted.

At Ahmednagar on the 16th August, Private William Eden, 2nd Bn Gloster Regt., was arraigned upon the charge of stealing goods, the property of a comrade. The prisoner was found not guilty of the charge and released.

At Poona on the 19th ult., Private James Wybrants, and Battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers, was arraigned upon the charge of disobeying in such a manner as to show a wilful defiance of authority, a lawful command given personally by his superior officer, in the execution of his office. He was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to be imprisoned with hard labour for eighty four days.

At Poona on the 19th ult., Sergeant Charles Shenton, 2nd Bn Durham Light Infantry, a soldier of the Regular Forces, was arraigned firstly, for neglecting to obey Regimental orders, and secondly for conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. He was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to be reduced to the ranks and to sit put under stoppages of pay until he has made good the loss.

At Kirkee on the 16th ult., Sergeant Charles Stewart, E Battery, 2nd Brigade, R. A., a soldier of the Regular Forces was arraigned upon the charge of failing to appear at the place of Parade appointed by his commanding officer. He was found guilty of the charges and sentenced to be reduced to the rank of corporal.

At Ahmednagar on the 16th ult., Private Benjamin Griffiths, 2nd Bn Gloster Regiment, was arraigned firstly, for creaking out of barracks ; secondly for stealing goods the property of a comrade ; thirdly, for loosing by neglect his clothing and Regimental necessaries ; fourthly for conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. He was found guilty of all the charges and sentenced to be imprisoned with hard labour for eighteen calendar months.

At Satara on the 16th ult., Private Janki Missir, 22nd Bombay Infantry, a soldier of the regular forces was arraigned upon the charge of having deserted from the 22nd Bombay Infantry Regiment at Satara on the 16th April 1887. He was found guilty of the charge and sentenced to be imprisoned for two months.

IN social circles at home there continues a good deal of gossip as to the treatment of the Indian Princes. " There can be no doubt says a correspondent that the arrangements made for the comfort and convenience of these potentates were not all that might have been expected, or all that men of their susceptibility might reasonably have looked for. The various departments concerned have been a good deal blamed, and Mr. Fitzgerald, Political Aide de-Camp to the Secretary of State for India, has received many hard knocks, probably for matters with which he had little to do. Mr. Fitzgerald's office has always been regarded as more or less of a sinecure ; but it may fairly be said that, if it is to be maintained, it ought to justify itself upon occasions such as these. As a matter of fact, however, the Indian Princes were more in the hands of their own political officers than of Lord Cross's Political Aide-de-Camp ; and Mr. Fitzgerald may well say that he did all that was possible for him, considering that he had no funds upon which to draw. It would have been rather hard that he should have been called upon to pay out of his own private purse the railway fares of the Indian Princes who went down to Portsmouth to see the Naval Review." The correspondent adds that Sir Lepel Griffin's letter in the " Pall Mall Gazette" is generally looked upon as a diplomatic document.

NAVAL AND MILITARY AFFAIRS IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

LORD WEMYSS, in calling attention to the proposed removal of the National Rifle Association from Wimbledon Common, expressed his opinion that means might be adopted to render that common a practically safe ground for the meetings of the Association, notwithstanding the spread of houses and the increasing number of residents in the Wimbledon neighbourhood. He believed that the keeping up of the contests of the Association on the spot where they were now held was a matter of national importance, and therefore he hoped that the subject would receive the attention of the Government.

The Duke of Cambridge recognized that the meetings of the National Rifle Association were of national importance. He had been president of the body itself for the last 20 years, and he should not wish to do anything to impair its efficiency ; but the rifle ranges at Wimbledon had, in his opinion, become a source of positive danger owing to the increase of residences there, and he did not think it possible that the annual meetings of the Association could be held much longer there. Hence he had felt it right to give the Association notice. He could not concur with his noble friend in thinking it at all necessary for the existence of the Association that the shooting meetings should be held at Wimbledon except those meetings were to be regarded as a show. Those who were really interested in good rifle shooting would go to Pirbright, Shoeburyness, or some other place more distant from London.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

FRIDAY EVENING, SEPT. 2.

THE advance of the Bank of England rate from 3 to 4 per cent. comes somewhat unexpectedly so far as the indications on this side have gone of late, and even yesterday's return exhibits no change for the week in the proportion of the Reserve to Liabilities, which still stands at 42 per cent. In the open market the rise has only been ½ on 3 and ½ on 6 months Bills, and Consols, it may be noted, are ⅛ higher which does not look as if dear money were anticipated permanently. Bar Silver is advanced ½ per oz. to 44 15-16d. and Reuter's quotations for Rupee Paper show a rise of ¼ in 4 and 1-16 in 4½ per cent.

In the Mincing Lane markets no movement of any kind is reported. Wheat according to Reuter shows a recovery in No. 2 Club of 6d. per quarter, but this does not tally with private advices which are still depressed in the extreme.

COTTON in Liverpool yesterday closed firm with sales of 10,000 bales, of which 1,500 were Surats. Spot prices remain unaltered, but American to arrive is quoted 3-64d. dearer in all positions, and from New York Futures come 5 points higher at 9·29 for December, 9·34 cents for January.

The market here has not responded in any way to the slightly stronger tone reported from Home. The only inquiry of any kind for export is for New Bengals, which would bring Rs. 143 for Good and Rs. 162 for Fine January delivery, but natives are very firm about selling, apparently attaching greater weight to the adverse crop accounts than Europeans. The Mills have been less active buyers again to-day, the only purchases reported being 200 bales Dhulia at Rs. 157, 100 bales Veerumgaum at Rs. 173 and 100 bales Compta at Rs. 154½ per candy.

WHEAT continues very sick. The dealers, although unwilling to sell forward, are anxious to clear out their present stocks at the best rates they can get, while Europeans continue very willing sellers, and a fair line of 85 per cent. Ek Dhani Pessy for November delivery has been done at Rs. 3-13 per cwt.

The receipts of Produce into Bombay yesterday were as follows:—

Cotton	315	bales.
Wheat	8,003	cwt.
Linseed	1,364	„
Rapeseed	528	„
Gingelly	533	„
Groundnuts	405	„

FREIGHTS may be called steady considering the very limited quantity of produce available for shipment. The s.s. Europa and the s.s. Clan Fraser are both reported fixed for October loading at 17s. 6d., and business has been done again for Marseilles at 15s. 6d. per ton.

EXCHANGE in the morning opened quiet, but firm at 1s. 5¾d. for demand Bank Bills and 1s. 5 7-16d. for 3 months Credits, but at one time during the day a firmer tone became apparent, and 1-32d. higher was named in both cases. Later on this in turn gave way to a quieter feeling, and at the close we are back to the opening prices, say:—

Bank Bills on demand.. 1s. 5¾d.	per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic ..... 1s. 5 7-32d.	„
Do. 3 months' sight .. 1s. 5 5-16d.	„
Credits 3 months' sight 1s. 5 7-16 to 15-32d.	„
France 3 months' sight 1·34⅛ to ¼d.	„

Bank Bills forward are obtainable at current rates

GOVERNMENT PAPER has been very strong again to-day, and Fours have advanced to Rs. 98 13-16, at which a fair inquiry prevails. Fours-and-a-half remain at Rs. 102½.

SHARES.—Bank of Bombay are lower again at Rs. 7575. Mofussil Press shares are Rs. 2½ higher at Rs. 442½. Mill shares are all firmer, and in most cases Rs. 5 to Rs. 10 dearer. Bombay Flour Mill shares have changed hands at Rs. 525. Thacker and Co., Ld., at Rs. 195.

DOMESTIC OCCURRENCE

BOMBAY.

DEATH.

FOOTE—August 28, at Dharwar, Anna Louisa, the infant daughter of Wm. Foote, S. M. Railway, aged 5 months and 11 days.

The Bombay Gazette

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1887.

THE Allahabad paper gives up several columns of its valuable space to the lucubration of a Madras Barrister upon the affairs of Hyderabad, which is written in unblushing imitation of the style of a correspondent who recently gave some interesting details in respect to a certain Maharaja's peregrinations in Europe. The plagiarist has not confined himself to the harmless device of making a bird speak. He is content to be a secondhand Sir John Gorst, who combining business and pleasure in Hyderabad, made a woeful hash of the case which he undertook to recommend to public acceptance, and left his client in far worse plight than he was in before his injudicious advocacy ruined him outright. Such an example it was scarcely worth while to follow. However, that is not our affair. We have only to deal with misapprehensions of facts which derive their chief interest so far as we are concerned from the fact that we are cited as the authority which first gave publicity to the fact that it was in contemplation to effect certain changes in the administrative machinery of Hyderabad, with a view to bring it into line with modern machinery adopted for that kind of work in Europe and in British India. Here is what the writer says on this point:—"Asman Jah received his first intimation of the little surprise in store for him when he reaches Bombay. He picked up his news from public gossip. The first servant of the realm was not consulted as to the scheme which was to clip his powers, and to make him but one of a co-equal Trinity. Even when Asman Jah actually entered upon office, he was kept in the dark as to the very fact of the proposals which were being quietly completed. From him was withheld every shred of the correspondence which had passed upon the topic. Upon Asman Jah, and the public at large, the announcement in the Bombay Gazette of the practical readiness of the scheme fell with a very whirlwind of surprise." This statement shows that the writer does not understand the facts of the case which he essays to make clear. When Asman Jah arrived in Bombay he was not yet Minister; and it was quite impossible to consult him upon any measure whatsoever. The situation as it stood when the Nawab arrived in Bombay on the 17th July can be seen quite plainly from the statement which he then read in the Bombay Gazette published a few days before:—"The announcement made by the Pioneer that the Nawab Asman Jah is to be appointed Minister in succession to Sir Salar Jung is correct; but the statement that Sirdar Dilar Jung and Mehdi Ali have been appointed Chief Secretaries is open to correction. The intention to make the Nawab Asman Jah Minister was made known some time since, but the appointment was deferred until the return of the Nawab to Hyderabad from London. The Nizam desires to give the new Minister the assistance of two secretaries of state of proved ability as administrators, but we understand that the Government of India has not as yet signified its approval of that arrangement, and at present no final decision has been arrived at."

As soon as the Nawab arrived in India he thus learned from our columns the exact conditions under which His Highness the Nizam intended to make him Minister in succession to Sir Salar Jung. It was not possible to consult him on the subject before; he was absent from India and he was not yet Minister. And the terms in which we corrected a misapprehension to which the Pioneer had given currency, showed that the Nizam had deferred the realisation of his plan for the re-organizing of the administrative machinery until the return of the Minister expectant to Hyderabad. This was an act of consideration for the Nawab which nullifies wholly the complaint now made that the Minister was left to learn "from public gossip" that there was a scheme on foot "to clip his powers" and make him "but one of a co-equal Trinity." At that time he was not Minister, and he had no powers that could be clipped; and there was not then and there has not been at any time any intention of making the Minister of Hyderabad one of a co-equal Trinity. The intention has been to give to two Chief Secretaries a quasi ministerial status, subordinate to him as Prime Minister, the three under the Presidency of the Nizam carrying on the Government in co-operation. No mine was sprung upon the Minister; for when he was inducted into that office at Hyderabad he would already learned the intentions of the Nizam. If upon his arrival in Bombay on the 17th July "the practical readiness of the scheme fell (upon him) with a very whirlwind of surprise," it did not surprise any one else in India. The Pioneer believed that the plan had been already carried into operation. The London Times had in July fallen into a similar error. But in so far as it was the intention of the Nizam to institute the reform in question the London paper was well informed; and it gave its entire approval to the plan which His Highness had formulated. The writer in the Allahabad paper altogether misconcieves the nature of the proposed change when he imagines that the object is to "pamper the ambition of one man" namely, the Sirdar Diler Jung. The idea originated with the Nizam, and His Highness could have no motive in "pampering" any individual ambition; had he desired to favour him he could have done so, and no one could have raised even the shadow of an objection. It is absurd to say that a proposal emanating from the Nizam and approved by Lord Cross, and by Lord Dufferin, has for its aim and object the gratification of any one man. Precisely because the evils of a system depending on "the undivided absolutism of the Minister of the day" have become patent, the Nizam and the Secretary of State and the Viceroy desire change which will give an element of stability and efficiency to the administrative machinery. The notion that "the subordination of all classes to one palpable chief is complete" and that "nobles and ryots alike pay homage to the unfettered supremacy of one single head" has no foundation in fact. Nothing is so precarious as the position of a minister so "unfettered" and so "absolute" as a Dewan of Hyderabad, who may fall at any moment if he cannot forestall or circumvent the intrigues which fill the very air of the place.

This believer in the permanence of absolutism and in unfettered power, in the same breath says that there is while he is writing "a ferment in political circles" and that "the dignity of the Minister, the successful issue of his administration, and even the tranquility of the country are at stake." This is the very strongest reason that can be urged for giving the Minister a support which will place his dignity, the success of the administration, and the peace of the country above the dangers which have always and must always beset a government which is based on the personal ascendency of one man, who by the mere suspicion of such ascendency whenever it exists, must render the Minister obnoxious to a jealousy which will be fatal to him at one hour or another. The danger is patent, and is ever present, and it is with a view to obviating it with the minimum of shock or change that the Nizam's idea of associating two Chief Secretaries with the Minister, but not coequal with him, has been approved by the Government of India and the Secretary of State. Mr. Cordery the Resident, and Colonel Marshall the Private Secretary to the Nizam are of one mind in recommending the adoption of this means of putting an end to a source of constant unrest and perpetual intrigues. NATIONALIST MEETING PROCLAIMED.

LONDON, SEPT. 2.

A discussion of an unusually lively character took place last night in the House of Commons, in consequence of a meeting announced to be held at Ennis, Co. Clare, on Sunday, having been proclaimed under the Crimes Act.

Mr. Dillon declared that the meeting would be held notwithstanding, and that if any bloodshed should take place he would consider the Secretary of State for Ireland as primarily answerable.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY.

BERLIN, SEPT. 1.

An official announcement has been made on the subject of the health of the Crown Prince of Germany. It states that his Highness' ailment is progressing very favourably owing to the excellent state of his general health, but that a return of the growth in the throat is not improbable; for the present, therefore, absolute rest of the vocal organs and a careful avoidance of cold and damp are most necessary.

THE AFGHAN DINNER AT SIMLA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, SEPT. 2.

The Afghan dinner held at the United Service Club yesterday evening, under the presidency of Sir F. Roberts, was attended by 56 guests and passed off most successfully.

After dinner, when the health of the Queen had been drunk, Sir F. Roberts proposed the health of those who served with us in Afghanistan. He said he was glad and surprised to see so many present, as many of the regiments which fought in Afghanistan were now in other parts of the world, such as the 93rd, the 72nd, the 67th the 10th and the 15th Hussars. Some of these had since rendered good service at the Cape and in Egypt, and he had followed their fortunes with great interest.

His Excellency also spoke of the numerous officers engaged in the Afghan campaign, who had since risen to high posts or distinguished themselves; such as Sir Charles and Sir Hugh Gough, Sir Thomas Baker, and Brigadier-Generals Lockhart, Galbraith, McQueen, Norman, Collett, Low, and General Chapman, who had been on the staff both under Sir Donald Stewart and himself.

His Excellency also referred to the assistance rendered by Mr. Durand and other political officers who were at Cabul in 1879. He also made touching reference to those who had died since then, especially his two most trusted officers Sir H. Macpherson and Sir Charles Macgregor.

The spirit of the troops in India left no cause for fear, if we only made adequate preparations for the struggle which seemed impending. He hoped this would not be the last of Simla pleasant gatherings. The toast was drunk and the band played Auld Lang Syne.

Mr. Durand proposed the health of Sir F. Roberts in a very appropriate speech in which he referred to the difficult position of political officers. They were often supposed to be obstructive, but they were often as keen soldiers as the fighting men themselves, only their hands were tied by instructions. He was very gratified and proud to hear Sir F. Roberts speak of the services of political officers so cordially, and he looked back to the period spent at Cabul as one of the happiest in his life. He proposed the health of the first soldier in India. The toast was drunk with fitting honours, and the company shortly after separated.

THE MADRAS SCANDAL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, SEPT. 2.

The hearing of the case of Morgan vs. Ross was resumed to-day, when Mr. Eardley Norton, who had been detained at Hyderabad, joined counsel for the prosecution.

The evidence to-day consisted of statements by native men who drove the bullock coaches, and also Mr. Morgan's horsekeeper.

The first witness called said he drove Mrs. Morgan to Mr. Leggatt's house to dinner and took her back afterwards. He stopped on the return journey by order of his mistress. Ross come up and got in. The shutters were then closed. Mr. Ross was inside twenty minutes.

The next witness said he drove Mrs. Morgan to Mr. Scone's house to dinner and that Mr. Ross met the coach near the Club on the return journey and got inside.

Another witness gave evidence of a similar nature.

SIMLA, SEP. 2.

Subscriptions to the Macgregor Memorial now exceed Rs. 7,500. About the middle of this month a statement of what has been done will be submitted to the Commander-in-Chief, who will then decide whether another public meeting should be held this season or whether any final decision should be postponed till next spring. As it is not yet known what contributions will be received from England, Bombay, and Madras, it is not probable that anything will be done this year.

PROPOSED STEAM TRAMWAY TO KOLAR

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, SEPT. 2.

A company is about to be projected in London for the construction of a steam tramway from Ramasamudrum to Kolar road on the Madras Railway, and cutting through the gold fields of Kolar. A proposal from Sir Charles Lawson, for the use of the Madras Railway Company's trucks when loaded with materials for the gold fields, by the tramway company has been referred for the consideration of the Agent and Traffic Manager by the home direction, who have expressed themselves as willing to offre any facility to the projected company.

THE RIOT IN HYDERABAD SIND.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

KARACHI, SEPT. 2.

From the accounts which have been published in a native local print, and partially reproduced in your columns, of the quarrel which took place some days ago at Hyderabad between a few of the Belooch sepoys and some of the Hindu inhabitants of the town it might have been supposed that a serious riot had taken place. The accounts have been grossly exaggerated, the facts are as follows:—One or two of the sepoys meeting some Hindu women in the town, expressed somewhat too boldly their admiration. The male attendants of the women, assisted by some of the town people, assaulted the sepoys, and the latter getting the worst of it at heavy odds, brought some of their comrades to assist them; and there was a skirmish in which no one was much hurt. It was speedily suppressed and precautions have since been taken to exclude sepoys from the town, except with passes. The slight excitement which was temporarily caused has now altogether subsided. There was no outraging of modesty though some of the females were incommoded by the crush of the crowd.

It is a sign of Lord Rosebery's influence on Liberal policy, says a London correspondent, that the Liberals are making themselves responsible for putting pressure on the Government to induce France to give up possession of the New Hebrides Lord Rosebe y believes in a somewhat more spirited foreign policy than even Lord Salisbury seems ready to carry out. He will raise a debate in the House of Lords, and Professor Bryce will take an early opportunity of doing the same thing in the House of Commons. France has pledged herself over and over again not to annex the New Hebrides. Her position, however, is at the present moment distinctly illegal, and Lord Rosebery will do what he can to force Lord Salisbury into activity.

It is yet remains to be decided whether the anglicisation of the phrases "Wild West" and "Buffalo Bill" places their inventor and his heirs or assigns in a position to claim an exclusive proprietary right in them. The Messrs. Sanger maintain, apparently, that Colonel the Hon. W. F. Cody (to give him his Court Circular style and title) has no more claim to the name of Buffalo Bill than to that of Robin Hood or Jack the Giant Killer. Buffalo Bill they assert to be a mythical hero, in some way related (so their counsel hinted) to the "buffalo girls" of lyric renown. As for the rescue of the Deadwood coach they contend that it is simply an Americanized version of an incident from the equestrain drama of "Dick Turpin." A jury of comparative mythologists would perhaps be the right persons to decide these points though as no two comparative mythologists were ever known to agree, it is hopeless to think of twelve such good men and true arriving at unanimity. In the meantime the Messrs. Sanger seem to have felt themselves on the horns of an awkward dilemma. If there is no money drawing magic in the names Wild West and Buffalo Bill, why fight so strenuously for the right to use them? They have accordingly agreed, under protest, to cease doing so until the matter is finally determined.

The existence of gambling hells in London and at Brighton has more than once been forced upon the public attention. Exposures says a correspondent have been threatened again and again recently, and from what has transpired within the last few days starting revelations cannot much longer be deferred. Large sums change hands nightly at these places. It often happens that the less lucky are unable to meet to pay their debts. It is a rule at the baccarat table that a player must take his money on counters which represent money. There is always in the room a person who cashes cheques upon such commission as he may himself determine. It is by these commissions that the profits of the owners of the baccarat tables are forthcoming. The commission, of course, varies in accordance with the credit of the borrower. The person who cashes cheques is invariably the owner of the club. He has at times to incur considerable risks, and in some cases there is danger of there being no money at the bank to meet the particular cheque, and there is a further risk of its being repudiated by the gambler in the cool of the morning. By the way, enormous sums of the money have changed hands on a baccarat table at Brighton during the past week. Of this, too, the public may learn something.

NOTES FROM LONDON.

(FROM A LADY CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, AUG. 10.

NOW-A-DAYS, when we of the temperate zone are being frizzled steadily under a tropical sun without the accessories of a punkah, and a punkah-puller to slacken the process, it is hard for the remnant of society in London, charged with ministering to the hundred and one requirements of the British realm, to fulfil its duties with energy. It is hard to be expected to legislate wisely for discontented millions when the drowsy warmth of the summer afternoon sets us all a nodding—it is hard even to expect any interest to be shewn in politics by the almost comatose House of Commons—harder still with the thermometer at 98° in the shade to shew vigour in pushing forward measures the efficacy of which we should doubt if we looked at them in an unbiassed frame of mind by the clear cold light of a winters session. Every thing is hard work to us who are unaccustomed to being scorched or parboiled; and we are only now beginning to sympathize with our Anglo-Indian friends in their views, litherto misunderstood, of going calmly through life on the "dolce far niente" system. Now that to dine requires too great an effort, and to go to bed is too great a bore; there is little left us to do, but to grumble away our time, and grumbling, carried to its full perfection in a slow dull monotone, is an effective and non-heat-producing act, more telling than a thunderburst of passion and much less wasteful of tissue. This is a satisfaction at present when through stress of weather the verbs active are out of fashion, and life in the passive form is the only thing endurable. We are so unprepared here in England, in habits, dwellings and clothing for such a sample of sunshine from the tropics as we have had, that our ordinary motive power is scarcely sufficient to keep the human mind-machinery in motion. Our houses are too hot, our clothes are too heavy, and we have a prejudice not wholly unconnected with innate cussedness against doing the night on the cool airy attitude of our roof. We are a pneumatic race too, and must not run risks, and we are a conventional race, and must act decorously else we might swing our hammocks in the leafy shades of Hyde Park, and allow ourselves to be rocked to sleep by the passing breezes and awakened in the morning by the voice, not of throstle nor blackbird, but of the alert bus conductor calling for fares to the city "all the way 3d."

* * *

This beatific state of things may come to pass in the summers of the future for which we shall perhaps be wise enough to prepare in advance, but it does not exist at present. There are no shady Elysian fields where we may pitch our tents when we have been stifled out of our brick and mortar mansions. It is a well-known fact that none of the palaces and few even of the recently built houses are at all adapted to the comfort of the occupants in all weathers. As far as I can judge, artists are the only people who manage to make for themselves cosy little nests which are habitable all the year through. Mr. Whistler's White House, Isle Street, Chelsea, which now belongs to Mr. H. Quilter, the art critic, is full of pleasant devices to modify or improve a climate that blows alternately hot and cold. Adjoining the lofty drawing-room which in summer is cooled by the air coming from the garden through its three tall windows and through the screens of Moorish wood work inserted in the opposite walls, there is a deep wide ingle nook, a little room in fact with a capacious hearthplace of dark blue Chelsea tiles, stained glass window, luxurious couches and gobelin curtains that may be closed at will in winter.

* * *

A still more delightful house is Sir Frederick Leighton's in Holland Park Road, that quiet quarter a litte outside our rough every day London, where the P. R. A., and Watts and Colvin, Hunter and other great ones of the æsthetic world, have made for themselves abiding places each to his own particular taste. Sir Frederick Leighton's house stands close to the roadway and the outside gives no idea of its size or beauty. A hall with dark oak parquetrie floor, brightened by eastern rugs, leads into the drawing-room which was most pleasant to me for its quiet colours, its look of being used for comfort and not for state, and its things of interest which are not overcrowded as in most collector's houses nor eclipsed as in others by the taste for a touch of colour in the form of a gorgeous plush mounting, or a still more brilliant antimacassar. I always associate chair backs and antimacassars with the idea that the chairs are either too well covered to be sat in, or too badly to be exposed to view, under the present regime too, of gaudy, tinselly affairs tied with a ribbon bow or an art sash, one often suffers cruelly by leaning one's unsuspecting head on a pin, as Shakspeare's too confiding dove did in "as it fell upon a day." A pretty bay of three windows that have delightful recesses for cushioned enjoyment, between the crossed white lace curtains, gives a glimpse of a cool fresh lawn with trees and shrubs and brilliant summer flowers, which may be reached through a glass door in the adjoining dining room. This room also looks on the garden, and is a delightful place with its oak mantle shelf supported by decorative carved monsters, and its deep red walls brightened up by pieces of rare old China and rich colored majolica. From the dining room, the hall on the left leads to the studio above, by a staircase of white and colored marbles with a dado of dark blue Persian colored tiles; and above the dado are pictures everywhere and of every kind, the gleanings of a life of taste and travel.

* * *

In his studio we find Sir Frederick looking as he always does, clever, handsome, and artistic in his velvet coat and neglige necktie, and pleased to see us and tell us about his work. On an easel is the unfinished portrait of Lady Coleridge who is, I hear, an American beauty with whom Lord Coleridge united himself a few years ago. She is a fine woman evidently, with specially beautiful arms, to which Sir Frederick has done justice; but he does not apparently care for portraiture in its ordinary sense; his taste is composition, and he turns quickly to shew us the studies and sketch of his next year academy picture which stands with its back towards the public at present. The idea is taken from the story of Hector and Andromache, when Hector before engaging in combat foretells to his wife that when he falls she will be made a slave to draw water for her captors, and that one of Hector's old soldiers passing her at the fountain shall point her out to his comrades as Andromache, the wife of his dead leader Hector. In the middle of the sketch which combines architectural effect with a view of the distant landscape, the widowed Andromache in mourning garments stands with her pitcher waiting to be filled, looking sadly at a happy mother who plays with her infant. In the fore ground the soldier passing by shews her to his comrade, and groups of graceful girls and women fill up the back and middle distance. The colouring and the massing of figures are pleasant, and the studies of drapery for each shew that all the details, little or great, are thought out with as much care and talent as Sir Frederick always puts into his painting. He spoke with satisfaction of having himself noticed, in passing through this season's academy, that his hero watching for Leander was a favorite with the public, and he was glad to hear that his fresco of "The Arts of Peace," lately uncovered in South Kensington Museum, is also interesting with the masses, who have always a taste for things beautiful or things grand rather than for the low and commonplace.

* * *

The studio and anterooms are full of the choicest things which would take weeks to talk of, and one has so much to charm in the way of statuary and drapery and curios that it is a relief to go down to the Alhambra Hall, with its quiet half light coming through the colored windows under the dome, and rest on soft amber colored cushions listening to the splash and drip of the pretty fountain that returns its waters to its bath of cold marble in the centre. The floor of the hall is dark marble and rises by steps from the square basin of the fountain to the general level of the hall. The walls are made of Moorish tiles valued at almost a fortune, which they certainly in some measure repay, being things of beauty that are a joy for ever.

* * *

I was present recently at a meeting of a Primrose Lodge, the Dames of which seem to have somewhat lost faith in Lord Randolph as the Bayard of the cause. That he and Mr. Chamberlain have almost come to blows is the one satisfactory incident of these recent days. All talk of a National Party is already closed in the Lodges, I hear. The hope that Conservatives and Liberal Unionists would combine and form one party, begins to fade since the evidence afforded by recent elections that the rank and file of the Liberals are still possessed of an ignorant antipathy to a Conservative Government, and dislike voting for those who support it.

* * *

I hear also in the same precincts that Sir John Gorst is rather tired of Parliamentary life and would prefer the Colonies—not as a Colonist, but as a Governor this time. Sir Andrew Clark, who was in India not so long ago, has been down in Chatham making his bow as a Home Rule candidate, pledged to oust Sir John—if he can—at the next election. If Sir John gets a Governorship soon, Sir Andrew will try whether Chatham will have him.

* * *

Lord Hartington's speech has done something to assuage the pain which his behaviour in regard to the Irish Land Bill occasioned in bosoms which beat beneath the Primroses. It is pretty well understood that he would willingly come over and become a Conservative out and out, only that his followers would not follow; for fear of the constituencies, as I mentioned above. Mr. John Bright's truly Tory tone is a source of great gratification in these lodges. The good old man is held to be expiating admirably the errors of his youth. His snowy locks, crowning a face becoming seraphic in expression, give patriarchal benignity to the blessings which he bestows upon those whom he was wont of old to curse. He no longer prays that Ireland should be unmoored and towed out two thousand miles further into the Atlantic so that the breezes from America might regenerate her and sweep away the oppression of landlords and the insolence of policemen. He now denounces the American conspiracy which renders the position of landlords precarious and that of the police very laborious. The charge is remarkable as any sea charge and is greatly appreciated by the Dames and Squires of the Primrose League. It is said that the P. L. is in decadence; this is an invention of the enemy.

* * *

I am told, though I cannot vouch for the accuracy of the report, that official pressure is being brought to bear upon Sir John Pope Hennessy to induce him to abandon the action that he has brought against the Times for libelling him. The other pending action against Mr. Walter's journal is not likely to be dropped, unless, which I confess seems hardly likely, the defendants try to compromise the case before it comes into Court. It is the maxim of the Times never to apologise, or own to a mistake, however patent. The papers publish Mr. O'Donnell's statement of claim, in which he seeks the not insignificant sum of £20,000 as compensation for the injury done to him by connecting his name with the Dynamite outrages. A friend of mine and of Mr. O'Donnell met that gentleman a few days before the document above referred to found its way into print, and was assured by the former member for Dungarvan that no consideration in the world would prevent him from going on with his action. He is receiving no assistance from his former political friends and allies; indeed, I am told that the Parnellite members, or at least some of them, half suspect Mr. O'Donnell of being in collusion with the editor of the Times, for he has been the bitter opponent of Mr. Parnell's dictatorship and seceded from the party on that account two years ago. Anyhow, the Nationalists are for the present at all events holding aloof, and Mr. O'Donnell is being left to fight the great enemy of the National League single-handed. Mr. O'Donnell is not wanting in courage or in tenacity, but his friends fear that in the coming forensic struggle he may be handicapped by the bad state of his health.

* * *

The result of another cause célèbre, that in which Mrs. Langworthy was the plaintiff, has, you will see, terminated in a manner that cannot but be regarded as satisfactory from one point of view; though it is questionable whether the public will consider that her precious husband has received all his deserts. I never remember any case that excited more attention or called forth greater indignation from all classes of the community. Some of the strongest things I have heard said against Mr. Langworthy have come from men of the world, who would have been glad if not to excuse at least to extenuate his offence if there had been any justification for their doing so. The success of Mrs. Langworthy affords another striking illustration of the immense influence of the Press. Mrs. Langworthy, first, has to thank Mr. Stead for the justice that has been tardily done to her, and although it is, I know, the fashion to decry the Pall Mall in certain quarters, and to look upon its editor as a sensational "boomer," it ought to be stated to his credit that though in the opinion of his critics he often gets into the wrong track, he sometimes gets into the right one. Certainly, so far as the Langworthy case is concerned, he deserves the thanks of all right-minded people for his chivalrous defence of a helpless woman against a powerful and unscrupulous man.

Theatrical menus are being carefully rearranged to suit the taste of the play-going convives from the country. The Criterion will re-open on Saturday next with "Our Boys" revived for the benefit of our provincial cousins who differ from us in being able to enjoy over and over again the same appetising fare. The Gaiety is starting also on Saturday, a play in four acts, with the fascinating title of "True Love." No doubt it will take immensely with its romantic name, its clever director, Mr. Charles Warner, and the well known charms of Mrs. Brown Potter to recommend it. Those who love music better than the drama will enjoy the promenade concerts at Covent Garden. Mr. W. Freeman Thomas has made every arrangement to insure a successful season; the illuminations will be more than usually effective, thousands of fairy lights being added to enhance the brilliancy of the new gasoliers with which the theatre has been refitted, and the engagements include all the singers and musicians of note. Madame Valeria, Madame Enriquez, and Messrs. H. Percy and Walter Clifford, and a host of others will take part in the first concert next Saturday.

Mr. Mapleson advertises a series of promenade concerts at Her Majesty's, as we are not in danger of running to seed for want of musical culture during the next few months.

On Monday we went to the "Strand" Theatre where Devil's Caresfoot, an adaptation of Rider Haggard's "Dawn," is being played. Most people have read the story, and know how the lovers are separated by a trivial plot in order that the heroine may be made to marry the wrong man, as heroines are generally weak enough to do, in order to satisfy the exigencies of an exacting public which loves to see things go wrong in order, strange paradox! that they may eventually go right. Miss Janet Achurch, who took the heroine's part so successfully when the trial performance came off at a Vaudeville Matinée, continues to please by her sympathetic acting, and her skill in exactly rendering one's ideal of Angela Caresfoot. In the pretty plaintive parts she plays without affectation and her emotion is neither stagey nor overdone. I shall not say much of Mr. Charles Carrington, because he acts the villain too well, and I have no sympathy with villains. The other parts are well supported by the same players as at the Vaudeville trial, except that Miss Lottie Venn has taken the place of Miss Fanny Brough. On the 15th of August, the Avenue Theatre proposes to rival Buffalo Bill's Wild West by exhibiting the capabilities of the educated vs. uneducated equine race.

I hear from America, where the show has lately been, that the coming sixteen horses of Arabian birth but European culture want nothing but the gift of speech to make them perfect. a comfort to us poor humans, who are suffering from competition all round, that these animals cannot be taught to talk, or they would probably soon oust us from the best appointments by their superior talents and docility.

* * *

The performance of "A Midsummer's Night's Dream" at Pope's Villa, Twickenham, for the benefit of the Charing Cross Hospital, was a financial as well as a scenic success, and George Augustus Sala describes it in this week's Truth in a delightfully light, airy, frivolous fashion of his own, which is a contrast to the ponderously dull critiques with which our papers strive to amuse and improve us.

From Paris comes talk of a new play which Sardou is writing for Madame Bernhardt. It is called Messaline, and judged by the standard length of other French plays it is short, and of the five acts four only are to be distinguished by the presence of the Divine Sarah. On her return from South America she will appear at the Porte St. Martin in the "Directoire," a play which Sardou has almost finished.

At a large "At Home" on Tuesday night I saw two pretty dresses—one, worn by a fair young girl out for the first time, was of soft creamy beige dotted with pearls and draped over a cream striped satin. The bodice, a V shape back and front, was also of the satin softened with a pearly ruching. The other dress was also worn by a pretty fair woman, the under-skirt of satin the color of a blush rose, the drapery of pink tulle embroidered with rose buds, and the satin bodice which was low had tulle brought from it up to the neck, where it was gathered in under a collaret of pink pearls. The arms were uncovered and the whole had a pretty effect.

A GUJERATI "READY RECKONER."

MOBED KEKOBAD CURSETJI MODY has published a Gujerati compilation called "Easy Calculator," which must prove a very useful aid to merchants, contractors, proprietors of mills and factories and other large employers of labour. The work is of a most comprehensive character, and the thoroughness with which Mr. Mody has executed his task amply testifies to his patience and diligence. The calculations have been worked down to the very minutest fraction of a rupee, which is a badam, or about an eighth part of a pie. The work is divided into seven parts, and it is so well and clearly arranged that one has no difficulty in laying his hands upon any information he wishes to obtain, without the trouble of going through laborious calculations. Besides employers of labour, the book will prove a very useful vade mecum to moneylenders of all descriptions; for the rate of interest is calculated from a pice per hundred rupees per month to three per cent. per month. Commission agents, and buyers and sellers, have a chapter devoted for their own benefit, while another is devoted to calculations relating to weights and measures. The sterling exchange has not been lost sight of, and we hope the author has fathomed the very lowest depths to which it is possible for the despised rupee to sink, when he takes, as the basis of his calculations, the rate of a shilling per rupee. Starting from this point, the calculations go up to 2s. 2d. per rupee, a rate which must be regarded in these days as "beyond the dreams of avarice." It will be seen from this brief notice that Mr. Mody's publication is a most complete and satisfactory work of its kind.

"SPOTS ON THE SUN"—IV.

THE remainder of our voyage, writes Captain Ferule to me from London, was not particularly eventful. As soon as the Maharaja had thoroughly recovered from his sea sickness he began to cultivate friendly relations with the Captain. He regarded the ship as a small independent Raj and the Captain as a brother king. He frequently inquired how many guns Captain Smith might be entitled to, and in what class his State ranked. The Private Secretary and myself were unremitting in our endeavours to disabuse his mind of these childish notions; the former especially assumed a haughty demeanour to the Captain, simply in the hope, he assured me, of convincing H. H. Gramalsingji that he was no royal potentate, nothing in fact but a hireling. This might have had a very beneficial effect had not young Lalbunkum (that is the secretary's name you know) carried the acting of his rôle too far. Enraged at some piece of gratuitous insolence Captain Smith fetched the apostle of liberty, equality and fraternity—a box on the ear, and the ship rolling at the same moment Lalbunkum's heels turned heavenward as he violently shot down an open hatchway with maledictions on his lips. After this the Maharaja was obstinately persuaded of Smith's royalty and despotic power. He insisted on holding a Durbar in honour of his brother prince.

The Durbar was a very singular and imposing sight. It was held just before we reached Aden in order that a full and creditable account of it, composed mainly by Lalbunkum, but chastened and beautified by a few touches of my master hand, might be despatched as early as possible after the completion of the ceremony to the Chief Secretary to Government, Political Department.

Everyone on board was invited, but the Captain and the first-class passengers with unaccountable prejudice as it seemed to us declined to allow the lascars, firemen and other compatriots of their royal host to enter the saloon at any price. We had intended that they should sit in a half circle behind the more distinguished guests, reproducing to the life some of the more conspicuous features of the Kharabzatpur Durbars. But the beautiful and dramatic idea with all its rich possibilities had to be abandoned. The Captain was bad enough; he said he'd be something, something, somethinged, before he'd allow any of his lascars and firemen into the saloon to please the great Panjandrum himself! As if it mattered in this radical age when you're as likely as not to meet the Europe shopkeeper of Jehannampor, India, at the Duchess of Stilton's exclusive at homes in London: when the Deputy Collector is made of much more consequence by distinguished globetrotters and officials than the poor Judge or Political Agent, because the former is a gentleman of the country while the latter are only English exiles: when to be a demagogue, a sedition monger, an illiberal and fustian traitor is enough to secure you more than common dignity—when all these things are subjects of common notoriety and common regret too amongst honest and loyal men, what could it have mattered whether we took in a few poor firemen and lascars or omitted them from our Durbar festivity? All this I urged on the Captain with my usual forcible eloquence, but he was as unmoved as Grambalsingji had been in the affair of the ship's Doctor, and unlike Grambalsingji his language was shockingly violent, and such as we are quite unaccustomed to in our department. But had we not been there there were one or two old fossils who pretended that they had served for years as Political Agents in their younger days, and who ridiculed the whole solemn pageant for which I was responsible in a manner inexpressibly more galling to me than the uncouth gibberish of the sailor. I didn't believe them: once a Political Agent always a Political Agent surely—is it not so, my dear O? No man who has bloomed in the full splendour of a Political Agent could ever of his own accord relapse into the dull obscurity of revenue or regimental life. Of course, these poor old things may have been found unfitted for the delicate duties with which they were entrusted, and consequently have been degraded. They were civilians, and though, my dear O, you are a "black coat" and a singular specimen of that despicable race, you must permit me to say that Civilian Politicals, in comparison with their brethren of the Staff Corps, are lamentable failures, both in the departments of ornament and usefulness. I am afraid that if conviction can be produced by untiring repetition I must sadly confess that I am convinced of the truth of Ferule's opinion. During my long and chequered career I have heard so often and on such good authority that the soldier when once he turns his mind to the sedentary duties of civilian life can as far outshine the poor worn product of competition, in the peaceful and remunerative paths of political life as he has ever been wont to do when both were younger in the ball room and at the billiard table, that I have ceased to ask myself why it is so. If it is a fact, generally the soldiers themselves who vouch for their own superior abilities, they surely ought to be the best judges, what is the use of wasting time and thought in seeking impossible explanations.] However, resumed Ferule, when in reply to some of their coarser and less endurable jests on the subject of the Political Department in general and bear leading subalterns in particular they ignored the fact of my having been gazetted a captain four months age entirely—but that's just like your civilian—I ventured to hint at the possibility of their connexion with our department having been severed on account of their natural want of diplomatic tact, they seemed hardly to know whether to be more amused or indignant. At any rate one old fellow who struck me as being the rudest and most ignorant of the lot peremptorily put his foot down about the lascars and firemen, and as his opinion seemed to carry great weight I found it useless longer to contend against such deep rooted prejudice. "Mr. MacSneerer," I observed at the close of the discussion, "I haven't the pleasure of ever having heard of you before, and I confess I never wish to hear of you again, but I'm bound to tell you that your priggishness and illiberality are most unworthy of any service, even the service to which you have the misfortune to belong. The opposition which I have met with at your hands in prosecuting an ennobling and dignified project I shall feel it my duty to make the subject of representation in my very next report to my Government." Here I bowed and walked slowly away with that peculiar air of hauteur only to be found, my dear O., amongst the younger members of our service; and I regret to add that I heard that old reprobate MacSneerer in fits of laughter, positively dangerous I should say to a man of his full habit. [On perusing this very startling episode I confess that cold shudders ran down my back. Unhappy Ferule, ingenuous youth! just to imagine the scene, talking in that fashion to MacSneerer whom I, even I—[but hysterical laughter overpowers me. It seems to me that granted a Rajah and a political uniform, your young Staff Corps man can make quite as egregious an ass of himself as a poor civilian, though, of course, this is rank heresy and never should appear except as an aside between brackets. Viz pegasus Expediet te, oh Ferule, from this chimæra; but let me read on.]

The Durbar was a great success. We had a piece of cloth of gold on the saloon sofa, the Maharaja sat in the centre—a vacant space to his right was left for Smith, the guest of the occasion. There was some difficulty about the carpet in front of the throne, but this was overcome by judicious use of sheets. On the approach of Smith I, attired in full dress political uniform, went to the outermost edge of the third sheet to welcome and introduce him to the presence—my boy fired off a revolver a times as a salute. It was a little awkward, having nothing but ball cartridge, as it made the guests dodge about and perhaps feel a trifle uneasy—but beyond smashing a pier glass, for which the Maharaja with his usual princely generosity at once offered to pay, the salute did no damage. I tried to lead the Captain up to the Maharaja in the usual form, you know the style, a species of minuet step done crabwise to the accompaniment of the true and unique political smile. But Smith is rather an ass, and as soon as he got hold of my hand began shaking it violently and roaring out "Glad to see you my lad, and how's the noble potentate?" Now the initial proceedings of a Durbar as you know, my dear O, should invariably be characterized by an oppressive silence irradiated with vacuous smiles. Anything so indecorous as this irruption, really it was little better, of Smith I never could have imagined. I frowned severely and dragged him across the second sheet and half way up the easier one, where H. H. the Maharaja was standing, having advanced exactly two feet six inches, measured by myself, to meet his distinguished guest. The Private Secretary, who as part of the suite was standing behind the Maharaja, quailed visibly as Smith approached, but he made no sign; and really, everything considered, things went off very well. The Maharaja gave Smith pan supari, at which that sea bear guffawed in the most painful manner. I distributed these eloquent emblems of Oriental hospitality to the more distinguished guests—making a marked exception of MacSneerer. I have no assistant as you are aware, and the Private Secretary point blank declined to be of any use. So I had to utilize my native servant to perform these duties to the guests of inferior dignity—including MacSneerer! That gentleman only bowed politely, smiled rather grimly, and declined to accept the proffered pan. I sent off a full report of all these proceedings next day, as also the report I mentioned before about the Maharaja and the ship's Doctor. Nothing of any note occurred on our way between Aden and London. We arrived here yesterday, and I'm just off to the India Office.

P.S. 7 p.m.—O! my dear O., imagine my feelings! I'm a ruined man for sure—I've just learnt at the India Office that that remarkably able man MacSneerer, with whom I had a little disagreement, is actually Foreign Secretary to the Government of India! Why oh why didn't he say so previously!! Pan supari at the hands of my butler!!!

ONAGRUS.

THE DRAFT MUNICIPAL BILL.

THE Committee of the Corporation at their adjourned meeting, held yesterday under the presidency of Dr. Blaney, proceeded to consider the sections treating of the valuation of property assessable to property-taxes. Section 153 states that in order to fix the rateable value of any building or land assessable to a property-tax, there shall be deducted from the amount of the annual rent for which such land or building might reasonably be expected to let from year to year, a sum equal to ten per centum of the said annual rent, and the said deduction shall be in lieu of all allowance for repairs or on any other account whatever. Mr. Meherali Abdoola Dharamsi proposed that the above section be deleted and the following substituted for the same:—"The rateable value of any building or land assessable to a property-tax shall, subject to the deductions hereinafter mentioned, be as follows:—(a) where any such building or land is let the rateable value thereof shall be the amount of the annual rent for which such building or land might reasonably be expected to let from year to year. When part only of a building or land is let the remainder is either unlet or is occupied by the owner, the part so let shall in fixing the rateable value of the whole premises be valued at the actual annual rent receivable by the owner in respect thereof. In fixing the rateable value of any building or land the following deductions and no others shall be made:—(1) A sum equal to ten per centum of the said annual rent shall be deducted in lieu of all allowances for repairs. (2) One-half of the general tax payable in respect of the premises shall be deducted. (3) No portion of the water-tax, or halalcore cess, if any payable on account of the premises, shall be included in the amount." Mr. Dharamsi's amendment was carried nem con. Section 168 says that the Commissioner

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us, ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—See article of the Civil Service Gazette.

ADVERTISING
RAILWAY STATIONS.

THE Proprietor of the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" Press, having leased from the
G. I. P. RAILWAY COMPANY.
The NIZAM STATE RAILWAY
AND
The BHOWNAGAR GONDAL RAILWAY COMPANY,

The exclusive right of advertising at all the Railway Stations belonging to these four Companies, is prepared to contract with parties desirous of posting Notices or Advertisement on the lines.

The announcements may be in English or in any of the Native Languages.

The advantages which Railway Stations present as a means of bringing intimations of all kind before the public have been demonstrated in England by the extensive use which is made by Advertisers, of every station, great and small, along every one in the United Kingdom.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, SHIPPING COMPANIES, HOTELKEEPERS, MERCHANTS, TRADERS and others who wish to force their business on the notice of the public, all alike value the privilege of Railway Station Advertising.

And as nearly ALL TRAVELLERS ARRIVING IN INDIA NOW LAND AT BOMBAY and proceed by the G. I. P. or B. B. and C. I. Railways to their destinations, Placards exhibited at the different stations on those lines are every day becoming more and more valuable as means of bringing the Advertisers business to the notice of the public.

On the NIZAM STATE RAILWAY the Cantonment of Secunderabad, as is well known, contains the largest military garrison in India, a garrison comprising over 5,000 British and native troops. Contiguous to it is the Cantonment of Bolaram, garrisoned by two Regiments and one Battery of the Hyderabad Contingent, all officered by Europeans. South of Secunderabad, about four miles, are the suburbs of Hyderabad containing the Nizam's Regular troops, about 5,000 in number, officered mostly by Europeans, besides a large civil population. It would manifestly be a source of profit to firms to advertise at these Stations, the most important of which are Secunderabad, Hyderabad, Gangawaram, and Tandur.

Orders for exhibiting Advertisement Boards on the B. B. and C. I. Railway Stations will also be received at this Office.

RATES.

Boards not exceeding 2 feet long and 2 feet broad Re. 1 per month. For every additional square foot annas 2.

Thus a firm exhibiting a board, say 4 feet square will have the advantage of having their business Advertisement read by thousands of passengers on one station platform for the trifling monthly expenditure of Re. 1. Parties advertising on six stations or more will be allowed a discount of ten per cent.; on twelve stations or more twenty-five per cent.

Special arrangements for long periods.

The boards to be delivered at the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" OFFICE, whence they will be sent by the Lessee to the various stations selected by the Advertiser. In the event of the contract terminating, the boards will be brought back to Bombay at the expense and risk of the Advertiser.

Advertisers can select the stations, on the four lines at which they wish their Placards posted, and may advertise for any period that may be agreed on. The charges have been fixed on an extremely moderate scale to encourage Advertisers to make a liberal use of the new means now offered of making announcements known to the public.

Placards, according to the taste of Advertisers may be printed at moderate charges in English or any of the Native languages at the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" Press. Estimates on application.

For further particulars apply to The MANAGER, "BOMBAY GAZETTE" OFFICE Rampart Row, Fort.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MANUFACTURERS OF

AERATED WATERS

Hay's Soluble Essences are Guaranteed to be the Finest in the Market.

HONOURABLE MENTION:
International Food Exhibition, London, October, 1880.

GOLD MEDAL:
Society of Arts, Paris, 1883.

GINGER CHAMPAGNE.
(Made from Hay's Essence).
"An excellent and most agreeable beverage."—The Lancet.
"Mr. Hay has caught the fine Aroma of Ginger with remarkable success. It is equally sparkling but more refreshing than its rival, the Royal French Beverage."—The Chemist and Druggist.

GINGER ALE.
(Made from Hay's Fortified Essence.)
"It pours out with as fine a 'head' as any glass of ale, and possesses all the fine aromatic flavour of the pure Ginger."—The Chemist and Druggist.

The difference between preparations made from Hay's Essences and those made from the numerous spurious imitations of them bearing the name of Soluble Essences, is most marked, and no Manufacturer using the latter can compete with one using Hay's Preparations, as is universally known.

HAY'S SOLUBLE ESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER.
A Pure Essence of the Finest Ginger, perfectly free from Capsicum. Highly adapted for the manufacture of Transparent Aerated Waters, and for all Dietetic, Medicinal and Pharmaceutical purposes. Trade Price, 5s. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 4s. 6d. per lb.

HAY'S COMPOUND FORTIFIED ESSENCE OF JAMAICA GINGER. For First Quality Ginger Ale.
Specially prepared for the manufacture of the very Finest Ginger Ale made, is an addition of Vanilla, Lemon, and other flavours to the above. It imparts, with the exquisite Ginger Aroma of the above-mentioned Essence, a peculiarly fine fruity flavour, combined with the fullest amount of fragrance and pungency. Trade Price, 5s. 6d. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 5s. Quantity required, 5 fluid ozs. to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles.

HAY'S GINGER ALE ESSENCE. For Second Quality Ginger Ale.
This Extract is strongly recommended for the manufacture of Ginger Ale, to which it imparts Pungency, Colouring, great Brilliancy, and an unusually Fine Ginger Flavour and Aroma, and makes a thoroughly good article. Trade Price, 4s. 6d. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 4s. Quantity, 3 fluid ozs. to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles.

HAY'S GINGER ALE ESSENCE. Highly Concentrated. For Third Quality Ginger Ale.
This Essence, which is a complete Bouquet of Flavours in a highly concentrated state, makes a Ginger Ale possessing an amount of aroma, flavour, and quality that will be sure to command a large sale, and that is unsurpassed by the so-called finest Belfast Ginger Ale. Trade Price, 3s. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 2s. 6d. Quantity required half a fluid ounce to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles. This Essence will be found most valuable to the general trade.

HAY'S GINGER CHAMPAGNE ESSENCE,
For the manufacture of Ginger Champagne. This Essence is a combination of the finest flavours, and imparts with the Ginger a most exquisite aroma, making a most delicious and refreshing approximation to Champagne. Trade Price, 8s. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 7s. 6d. per lb. Quantity required, 10 fluid ozs. to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles.

HAY'S SOLUBLE ESSENCE OF MESSINA LEMONS.
A magnificent Preparation, perfectly soluble, and makes the finest Lemonade obtainable. Trade Price, 8s. 6d. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 8s.
"Added in the proportion of 1 fluid oz. to a gallon of Syrup, the Soluble Essence imparts the most delicious flavour of the Lemon."—The Chemists' Journal.

HAY'S LEMON FLAVOUR. (Perfectly Soluble).
Trade Price, 5s. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 4s. 6d. Quantity required, one and a half fluid oz. to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles.

HAY'S HOP ALE ESSENCE.
This Essence is made from the Choicest Hops grown, and is unrivalled for its peculiarly fine Hop Flavour and aroma. Hop Ale made from this Essence has the full flavour of the Finest Hops, and is a really appetizing Bitter Beer. Trade Price, 8s. 6d. per lb.; 12 lbs. and upwards, 8s. Quantity required, two fluid ozs. to each gallon of Syrup, making 106 10-oz. Bottles.

NOTE.—The above are specially recommended to Clubs, Hotels, Messes, and Stores requiring the very finest Essences obtainable. There is nothing in the market to equal them.*

W. HAY {MANUFACTURING CHEMIST TO AERATED WATER MANUFACTURERS} HULL, ENGLAND.

Indentors, to prevent disappointment, should specify that the Goods are to be of Hay's manufacture.

The greatest care is used in packing for export to India; if in 1 lb. Glass Bottles (recommended for finest Essences), the cost of packing and delivering free on board ship at Hull, London, or Liverpool, adds about 7½ per cent. to the cost.

W. HAY cautions the Trade against the use of those spurious so-called Soluble Essences, which, besides having no Ginger Aroma, are Fluorurian, Rank, and Disagreeable and are little more than Mixtures of Caprionic.

KNAP'S PATENT IMPROVED

ROOT STEAM BOILER

WITH

KNAP'S PATENT INDESTRUCTIBLE METALLIC JOINTS.

Advantages:

PERFECT SAFETY from disastrous explosions.

DRY STEAM produced very quickly.

HIGH PRESSURES up to 300 lbs. per square inch safely obtained.

ABSENCE of PRIMING.

PERFECT CIRCULATION of the Water in Tubes, preventing the Accumulation of Scale.

THE JOINTS last as long as the Boiler, and are easily made and disconnected.

Advantages:

SIMPLICITY of construction.

DURABILITY.

FACILITY of Erection and Repairs.

ECONOMY in FUEL. Will burn wood or any combustible rubbish.

They have a PERFECT JOINT—NO MORE PERISHABLE PACKINGS, with their constant leakage and frequent need of replenishment.

FOR EXPORT TO THE COLONIES they are especially serviceable by reason of the small cubical contents of packages.

FOR TRANSPORT through mountainous districts they are unrivalled. The Largest Boiler can be packed so that no package exceeds 150 lbs.

KNAP'S PATENT INDESTRUCTIBLE METALLIC JOINTS admit of the unequal expansion of the Tubes, and thereby prevent any leakage of the Joints. We have the sole use of this Patent.

THOUSANDS OF TESTIMONIALS FROM ALL PARTS
Read the following:—

"North-street, Audenshaw (near Manchester),
"January 10, 1882.

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to the wonderful effects of your Blood Mixture, which has cured me of a very bad ulcerated foot and ankle. I had four wounds which prevented me following my occupation for four years, during which time I have been in five different Infirmaries and under fifteen different doctors. I was at last induced to try your Blood Mixture, and after taking two small bottles I was able to go to work, and by the time I had taken nine or ten bottles I was completely cured. Make whatever use you like of this, for the benefit of other sufferers.—I am, Yours respectfully,
"JOHN WILLIAMS."

Sold in Bottles 2s. 9d. each, and in cases containing six times the quantity, 11s. each—sufficient to effect a permanent cure in the great majority of long standing cases. By ALL CHEMISTS and PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS throughout the world.

READ BROTHERS, LONDON
THE HOCK-HEAD BOTTLING

In The English High Court of Judicature.

THE "BULL DOG'S HEAD" BRAND

(Bass's Ale & Guinness's Stout.)

READ BROTHERS, of London, request purchasers of their Bottled Ale and Stout to ask for "THE DOG'S HEAD BRAND" because another and totally distinct Bottler uses the figure of a Bull Dog, and thus two bottlings of entirely different character may both be called "BULL DOG."
The original "Bull Dog" mark is the registered property of READ BROTHERS, and their bottling still often goes by that name, but the title of "DOG'S HEAD BRAND" is theirs exclusively and is the only one that is protected by the Injunction of the Lords Justices of England.
